HEU launches public sector bargaining tour on February 1

In preparation for public sector bargaining – covering more than 40,000 HEU members in the facilities, community health and community social services sectors – HEU is launching a pre-bargaining tour across the province.

The union is holding a series of evening sessions – beginning February 1 at Sheraton Guildford in Surrey – which are open to HEU's general membership to set the stage for bargaining and identify priorities.

Over the next two months, several meetings will take place from 6:30 p.m. to 9:00 p.m. and will include a presentation on the context for bargaining, small group discussions, and a Q&A session. Registration begins at 6:00 p.m.

These open sessions are being held in addition to a series of meetings scheduled with local representatives.

For members who are able to come out to an evening meeting, it is a good opportunity to learn about the bargaining process, raise issues, and ask questions.

Members are responsible for their own transportation costs and no wage replacement will be provided.
