Workshop Descriptions

Workshop 1: Campaigning to win electoral reform

Our current electoral system doesn't work for working people. Learn skills to help BC voters choose electoral reform in the fall referendum.

Workshop 2: Workplace violence, bullying and harassment

Bullying and harassment have no place in the workplace. Learn how to increase our ability to identify and stand up against workplace violence, bullying and harassment.

Workshop 3: Organizing in today's workplaces

Currently, one in four British Columbians are Black, Indigenous or Workers of Colour. The Indigenous workforce is the fastest growing worker demographic in the province. How can we organize ourselves and these communities to ensure that our unions stay relevant?

Workshop 4: Municipal election issues and campaign strategies

Get ready to mobilize co-workers and communities to elect progressive governments in BC's municipal elections in October.

Workshop 5: Regional issues: Community benefits agreements and Just Transition

Learn about the history and current issues facing working people in the North Island, and programs and policies that have helped communities thrive.
