

Community Social Services tentative agreement now available

With a tentative agreement reached between the Community Social Services Bargaining Association (CSSBA) and the Community Social Services Employers' Association (CSSEA), full details of the proposed contract are now available.

The tentative agreement was concluded on June 14, following four-weeks of intensive bargaining. The proposed contract covers 16,000 community social services workers throughout B.C., who are represented by 10 unions. HEU is the third largest union in the sector.

Full details and highlights of what was negotiated is available at www.heu.org/community-social-services
