

OH&S training needs assessment survey for long-term care workers

SafeCare BC, the new health and safety association for the long-term care sector in British Columbia, wants front-line care workers' feedback on occupational health and safety training.

In consultation with stakeholders and unions, including HEU, the scope of the confidential survey – conducted by the independent firm Howegroup – includes a thorough assessment of OH&S training, education and resources available to the long-term care sector.

The goal of the short online survey is to get workers' input on the method and types of OH&S training they feel is necessary to perform their jobs safely and effectively.

HEU encourages members in our long-term care (residential/extended care) work sites to complete the confidential survey. Participants will also be eligible to win one of two $50 gift cards for Indigo Books.

To take the survey, visit <http://fluidsurveys.com/s/safecarebcstafftraining/>.

For more information, visit SafeCare BC (<http://safecarebc.ca/>) or contact Howegroup representative Wynona Giannasi (wynona.giannasi@howegroup.ca).

The survey will remain open until February 3, 2014.

January 17, 2014

